Dear Commissioner Hensley Docket # 00P-1211 AUG-3, NO:32

It is of great concern to me that genetically altered foods are being promoted by Kellogg's. All of us that decide to stand by and allow this to happen may have grave consequences to face in the normal development of our future generations. It is my feeling thoughts that people, like yourself, who are responsible for heavy decisions that have the potential to destroy our children's ability for normal reproduction etc., should put their own family members at risk first. If you are so sure these products will do no harm, then let your loved ones be the try them. The rest of us will stand & watch!

Please review your position & think (over) of the extreme risk. The ramifications are enormous. What long-range effect these products have is any one's guess. Can't you understand how very important it is to pre-market and environmentally test these products prior to general populace use?

The health of Americans is so sabotaged by the artificial flavorings MSG - & sweeteners (nutrasweet<sup>etd</sup>) + other chemicals added to our foods that are never meant to be consumed by our bodies — already. Young children born with "infant cancer". MSG, diabetes. Give us a break!

Sincerely
Ava Kay Blumer
